

Canadian & World Politics

COURSE OUTLINE

Course Description

CPW 4U1 - Canadian & World Politics, Grade 12, University Preparation

This course examines Canadian and world politics from a variety of perspectives. Students will investigate the ways in which individuals, groups, and states work to influence domestic and world events, the role of political ideologies in national and international politics, and the dynamics of international cooperation and conflict resolution. Students will apply critical thinking and communication skills to develop and support informed opinions about current political conflicts, events, and issues.

Late and/or Missed Assessment Tasks

If a student is unable to attend a class, arrangements should be made with the teacher before the class is missed. If a student is absent from a class for any reason, it is the student's responsibility to have found out what was missed and have completed it before the beginning of the first class back. The work missed should be picked up by a classmate or printed off the course website. If an assignment is due on a day that a student is away, it is the student's responsibility to make alternate arrangements so that the assignment is still submitted on the day it is due.

Students must respect due dates set by teachers. Students must hand in all assignments on the dates scheduled. If a student is unable to meet a deadline, he or she must approach the teacher well in advance of that day and bring with them a copy of their "work in progress". Students who approach the teacher the day before or the day of a deadline will not be granted an extension. These students will be subject to late penalties.

A late penalty will be charged against assignments that are not handed in on the expected dates. The student will have 5% removed from the earned mark for each day to a maximum of five days or until the assignment has been returned to the students, whichever comes first, at which point a mark of zero will be assigned. Weekends count as two days.

Some due dates can not be changed (e.g. end of unit, exam date). If assessment tasks are not completed, course expectations can not be evaluated, and a mark of zero may be assigned. Presentations must be delivered on the date assigned. A mark of zero will be assigned to any student failing to show up on his or her presentation date without a prior arrangement having been made.

Tests are to be written on the day scheduled. If a student misses a test, he or she must bring in a note addressed to the subject teacher from either a doctor, parent, or guardian, stating the reason for the absence and that the adult is aware that the student missed a test. The note must be handed in on or within 24 hours of the date of the student's return, else a mark of zero will be assigned. The test must be written on the day of the student's return to school. A student will receive a mark of zero if he or she skips the class on the day the test was administered.

Plagiarism and/or Cheating

Plagiarism and cheating will not be tolerated. A mark of zero may be assigned for cheating and plagiarism and the student will be referred to an administrator. Parents and guardians will be informed of the situation and the incident will be recorded. Repeated offences of plagiarism or cheating may result in suspension or expulsion.
